Mayor under fire from businesses over 'stench'

ALY THOMSON
for Metro Halifax

SEWAGE Downtown Halifax food operators are turning up their noses at Halifax Regional Municipality Mayor Peter Kelly.

Luc Erjavec, vice-president of the Atlantic Canadian Restaurant and Food Services Association, addressed an open letter to Kelly yesterday expressing the industry's concerns with the "stench" in downtown Halifax over the failed Halifax sewage treatment plant, which has been out of commission since Jan. 14.

"It's been too little, too late," Erjavec told Metro yesterday. "We've been waiting too long for answers, and too long for action to be taken."

Erjavec wrote in the open letter that businesses rely on waterfront traffic in the summer months, and customers are complaining about the "stench" both inside and outside of restaurants. Some customers are even refusing to sit on patio areas, he wrote.

"Many operators believe the public awareness of raw sewage pouring into the harbour on lower Water Street is also keeping many local and regional customers away from the waterfront area," the letter said.

Beverlee Russell sobs as she leaves the courtroom at Dartmouth provincial court yesterday. Russell faces multiple charges including manslaughter in connection to a fatal motor vehicle crash earlier this month that killed retired teacher Gary Pfinder.

Woman charged

Accused in fatal crash case to undergo psychiatric testing

A 54-year-old woman facing a multitude of serious charges including manslaughter in relation to a fatal motor vehicle accident last week in Cole Harbour sobbed loudly and clutched her chest regularly as she made her way to and from an appearance at Dartmouth provincial court yesterday.

Halifax RCMP arrested Beverlee Russell, 54, of Cole Harbour, Monday night after being released from the QEII Health Sciences Centre.

She was immediately taken into custody where eight charges were laid — manslaughter, three counts of criminal negligence causing bodily harm, three counts of impaired operation of a motor vehicle causing bodily harm and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Russell is alleged to have left the scene of one collision on Aug. 3, and then caused a second one nearby at the intersection of Cole Harbour Road and Forest Hills Parkway. The second crash involved several vehicles and killed 57-year-old Gary Erroll Pfinder of Cole Harbour, a retired Dartmouth high school teacher. Police allege alcohol played a factor in both crashes.

As she was taken into court yesterday by sheriffs, Russell was in a wheelchair and could be heard complaining regularly about her alleged injuries and health problems. She was the same way outside as she was taken to-and-from the sheriffs van and into the court's holding cells. On her way into the courtroom, Russell was grimacing and looked to be reaching out to who are believed to be her two daughters, both of whom fought back tears.

Inside court, the judge ordered Russell to undergo a psychiatric assessment to determine if she is mentally fit to stand trial. Russell has a long history of mental illness, the court heard.

She is scheduled to return to court Sept. 11 to determine her mental fitness.

5 arrested following bowling alley robbery

PAUL MCLEOD

CRIME Five people have been arrested in relation to an armed, masked robbery at the Beazley Bowling Alley in Cole Harbour back in May.

Halifax RCMP first reported that four bandana-clad men — which they now say could be five — followed a 19-year-old female employee and her friend all the way to Porters Lake after she closed for the night at the alley just after midnight.

The men then allegedly jumped out of their car and forced the girls to drive back to the bowling alley and turn off the security alarm. The men placed the girls' heads in bags and held guns to their heads while discussing shooting them, Beazley owner Al Peters told Metro after the incident happened. An undisclosed amount of money was stolen from the alley.

Yesterday morning police arrested one suspect on Simmonds Road in North Preston.

By the afternoon three other men had turned themselves into police. At 4 p.m. a 17-year-old youth was also arrested on Alex Lane in North Preston.

"It's been an ongoing investigation since the robbery took place in May," said RCMP spokesman Cpl.

Joe Taplin. "So we had officers from the integrated team that were dedicated to this investigation. Through information they kept receiving and investigation of tips lead to the arrests of these five individuals."

Taplin said charges against the individuals could be laid today.

The RCMP have arrested two 15-year-old males in relation to windows being broken at Government Wharf in Eastern Passage early yesterday morning. Police say two windows at Boondocks, one at Dockside Treasures and one at the Government Wharf administration offices were broken. METRO HALIFAX

Record-breaking year for films

Film Nova Scotia announced yesterday it was a record-breaking year with $150 million in production activity for 2008-09, with the figure directly attributed to the Nova Scotia government's film tax credit. According to a government release, the tax credit "supports local productions and helps attract more foreign film productions." The release said both local and guest productions led to the record figure. METRO HALIFAX

Women struck by fire truck in hospital

INVESTIGATION A woman was sent to the QEII Health Sciences Centre in Halifax with what are believed to be non-life-threatening injuries after being struck by a fire truck yesterday afternoon in Lower Sackville.

Halifax RCMP say the fire truck was responding to a call with its lights and sirens on when a woman walked into the street in front of the moving vehicle on Glendale Drive near the intersection of Pinehill Drive.

Police are investigating the cause of the accident. METRO HALIFAX

System failed Hyde: Doctor

Physician says Tasered man should never have left the hospital

HILARY BEAUMONT
for Metro Halifax

Dr. Stephen Curry told the fatality inquiry into the death of Howard Hyde yesterday he believed the system failed the 45-year-old.

The doctor testified he chose not to involuntarily commit the mentally ill man to the QEII Health Sciences Centre after he was Tasered by Halifax Regional Police because he thought Hyde would see a forensic psychiatrist before an arraignment at court the next morning. That did not happen.

"Knowing what I know now, he should not have left the hospital," Curry told the inquiry.

Just hours after Hyde's struggle with police, Curry treated the schizophrenic man, who had been off his medication. Hyde was Tasered in a police booking office November of 2007 and died in jail 30 hours later.

When Hyde arrived to the hospital at 3 a.m., the doctor said, the emergency room was busier than usual. He also said the nurses he relied on to monitor his patients were understaffed.

At the time, the doctor said he felt Hyde had experienced a "metabolic event" rather than a "cardiac event," which would have indicated a problem with his heart.

With his hands in cuffs, Hyde sat comfortably on a bed in the emergency room while the doctor examined him for five to 10 minutes, looking for head injuries and other serious problems. During the examination, Hyde tried to kick Curry, the court heard.

Curry treated Hyde with medication to calm him down. When the doctor "peeked in" twice more, he said Hyde "appeared to be improving." So he allowed Hyde to leave hospital in handcuffs.

Council rejects plan to charge blind bus riders

paul.mcleod@metronews.ca

TRANSIT Blind passengers will continue to ride Metro Transit for free after Halifax Regional Council rejected a plan to take away free bus passes for the visually impaired.

For decades members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind have been able to ride the bus for free. But recently Metro Transit planned to revoke the free passes because it was seen as being unfair to people with other disabilities.

That plan needed to be approved by council, but they voted unanimously to continue the free pass program yesterday. In fact, in front of dozens of visually impaired people sitting in council chambers, council voted to expand the passes without debating the issue.

That angered Portland-East Woodlawn Coun. Bill Karsten, who said he had important questions he wanted to ask but didn't get a chance to because council was afraid to discuss the motion. But after the vote many in the crowd began yelling "thank you."

"I'm glad that city council was unanimous and so quick about it," said Duncan Williams, executive director of CNIB Maritimes.

"Our clients have not got equal access to the service that they're being asked to pay for. So until that happens it's not reasonable to ask for them to pay for service that's not nearly as accessible as it should be."

In other council news yesterday, municipal officials announced they are working on a plan to fight the smell from the broken harbour solutions plant but it likely won't be in place until the end of summer.

Officials are planning to divert wastewater flow through an existing pipe that lets out approximately one kilometre into Halifax Harbour. Many of the parts required to do this have been ordered but will not arrive until the end of August.

News in brief

ACCIDENT Police have released the name of the man who died in a motorcycle accident Sunday afternoon. Halifax RCMP say Timothy Miller, a 48-year-old from West Lawrencetown Road, died of his injuries from a collision with another motorcycle on the Waverley Road. Police say at about 5:10 p.m., two motorcycles travelling together toward Dartmouth rounded a slight curve in the road and appear to have lost control. Police believe the two vehicles may have come in contact with each other before crashing. A 46-year-old female who was driving the other motorcycle remains in hospital listed in serious condition.

ROBBERY A man left with an undisclosed amount of money after Halifax Regional Police say the Bank of Montreal on George Street in Halifax was robbed yesterday afternoon. Police say at 2:41 p.m., a man entered the bank and demanded money from the staff. No one was injured, with the suspect described as a white male in his late 40s, about five-foot-10.

Bookstore says it will close, customers pay final respects

ALY THOMSON
for Metro Halifax

Owner Heidi Hallet couldn't hold back the tears in the office of Frog Hollow yesterday.

After 25 years in business, the independent Halifax bookstore will be closing its doors on Aug. 22. The store made the announcement yesterday.

"It has been by far the most rewarding job I have ever had," Hallet said after saying how much she will miss her faithful customers.

The door chimes were jingling yesterday as faithful customers poured into the store after hearing the news.

But the store's devoted customers weren't enough to compete with online book sellers, big box stores, discount retailers and grocery stores.

Hallet, the bookstore's owner for the past three and a half years, said her rent has been continuously rising, and her sales have dropped in half over the past six years.

Frog Hollow moved from Park Lane mall to nearby Brenton Street in June.

and sales, but not enough to keep the store open.

She said they were almost shut down in February.

"They were going to lock us out if we couldn't cough up two months' rent," she said.

"So we sent the call out to the public that we were in trouble and customers came to our rescue."

After catching the news on the radio, Cathy Karpenko, an occasional customer of Frog Hollow, rushed over to pay her respects to the closing book store.

"I hate that small bookstores are closing," Karpenko said after picking up a book marked 40 per cent off.

"These stores expose writers that do not normally receive exposure."

Hallet said the future of independent bookstores is foggy.

"Independent bookstores are an endangered species," she said.

"People need to start realizing the value of local independent business and the choice that they're going to miss out on when they're gone."

A 23-year-old man who showed up with a bullet wound to his leg at the QEII Health Sciences Centre Monday evening isn't co-operating with police.

Halifax Regional Police say the man came into the hospital's emergency room for treatment at about 8:45 p.m., where during an examination a bullet was discovered in his leg. Police later tried to interview the victim, but he refused to talk with investigators.

Late Sunday night, police were called to Highfield Park in Dartmouth to a report of gunshots being heard ringing out near an apartment complex on Joseph Young. When police arrived no suspects or victims were located.

"We can't confirm it 100 per cent because he's not co-operating with us at all, however we're certainly looking into whether it could be related to the Highfield Park shooting," said HRP spokesman Const. Brian Palmeter.

Police believe a dispute between two groups of people led to Sunday night's shooting. They say information from residents indicate at least three males were involved, and the shooting may have been a retaliation to someone being bear sprayed or pepper sprayed just moments earlier.

To qualify for the allowance program a care recipient who is single or widowed can have a net income of up to $18,785.

ported or strongly supported "public solutions to make our public health care stronger."

"There is compelling evidence that Canadians across all demographics would prefer a public over a for-profit health-care system," Nik Nanos of Nanos Research said of the poll, commissioned by the Canadian Healthcare Coalition.

Support was strongest in Quebec, at 87.6 per cent and lowest in Ontario at 84.1 per cent.

The poll, conducted between April 25 and May 3, is considered accurate within 3.1 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

The CMA meets for four days beginning Sunday, when outgoing president Robert Ouellet will present the results of a five-country study of health care in Europe.

The study is expected to call for private clinics, such as the chain of radiology centres owned by Ouellet, to play a bigger role in Canada's health-care system.

Charity sent cash abroad, auditors say

FINANCES A Canadian charity has lost its licence after auditors found most of the $184 million it recorded during one year as charitable donations had gone offshore to a Bermuda company.

It's now unclear how much — if any — of the donations to the nobly named Funds for Canada Foundation helped the many charities it purported to be assisting. The best guess federal auditors could come up with is about $1.3 million.

In the case of Funds for Canada, auditors found that donors who gave $2,500 to the charity received a $10,000 tax receipt. Most donors who took part in the program are being audited by the Canada Revenue Agency.

RCMP should not investigate self: Report

SYSTEM Mounties should not investigate themselves on serious cases that involve death or sexual assault, according to a report released yesterday.

The current system, which was used to investigate the death of Polish immigrant Robert Dziekanski at Vancouver's airport, is flawed, inconsistent and fails to instill public confidence, the Commission for Public Complaints Against the RCMP (CPC) has concluded.

"As the seriousness of an alleged offence by a member increases, the discretion for the RCMP to respond as it deems appropriate must be removed and be replaced by mandatory requirements," said CPC chair Paul E. Kennedy.

The RCMP doesn't have "solid policies" on how in-Serious investigations should be referred to an external police force or provincial criminal investigation body with the involvement of a CPC observer.

Teen charged in school plot

State prosecutors in Germany have charged a 16-year-old schoolgirl with attempted murder for planning to burn her classmates alive this year.

The teenager from the western town of Sankt Augustin is accused of hatching a plan to lock pupils in their classrooms at her school and set fire to the building with gas bombs, prosecutors in Bonn said yesterday.

"The accused has made a comprehensive confession," prosecutors said in a statement. "According to her own statements and the investigation, she appears to have had a huge problem with fellow pupils, teachers and her parents."

If found guilty of attempted murder, as well as charges of causing grievous bodily harm, planning an explosion and breaking gun laws, she faces a youth custodial sentence of up to 10 years.

On May 11, the girl entered the school armed with the gas bombs, a starting pistol and a short sword with which she planned to stab a teacher in order to steal the classroom keys, prosecutors said.

However, the plan failed when another schoolgirl stumbled upon her in the toilets as she donned a mask. The accused wounded the 17-year-old with the sword but a teacher intervened to rescue her. REUTERS

You know you're not a good old boy (GOB) when ... you don't get hunting. And I don't get hunting.

Call me crazy but I don't understand the great satisfaction that goes with blowing up small animals for fun. Or large animals, for that matter.

So when I watched the YouTube video of the three yahoos blowing up ducks for yucks on a Saskatchewan slough, it set what's left of my hair on fire. If you haven't seen it, it's easy to find. Just Google "YouTube duck shooters" and click straight through to shock and outrage.

And there has been an outcry. The three GOBs in question pleaded guilty to various violations of the Dead Bird Act. Of course, they got off with a fine and a rap on the knuckles — so now their fake contrition can evaporate like a morning mist on a Prairie pond and they can go back to being full-time morons.

If the punishment fit the crime, they'd be up for an extended stay in the Hardrock Hilton for trashing nature while they run around giggling — then compounding their stupidity by posting it on YouTube. Let's see how they feel if they get to be the sitting ducks and the jailhouse regulars get to be the hunters.

The sad truth is that one of the charges these guys pleaded guilty to was hunting out of season — a mere technicality. In season? All you need is a licence and a ridiculously overpowered firearm.

The even sadder truth is these YouTube boobos are hardly unique. There are hundreds (thousands?) of other videos posted on YouTube featuring beefy guys in high-tech gear blowing away ducks, rabbits, bears and various ungulates with carefree abandon, all perfectly legal, all in season.

And yes, I still eat meat, which I buy at a supermarket. And yes, that makes me a shameless hypocrite. I'm trying to quit. But here's the news: We have perfected the technology of fang and claw. There's no need to go out and actively track down dinner, unless you're one of the few thousand people left on the planet who are legitimate hunter/gatherers.

And if you try to convince me there's something special about duck à la buckshot, you're just adding insult to injury. Real men eat tofu.

GOBs, it's time to hand in your weapons. There are plenty of exciting alternatives to exterminating Daffy and Donald and an annual estimated 100 million of their woodland friends. Take pictures of ducks instead. You get to shiver for hours in a blind, just like hunting. You don't need a licence and it's a helluva lot easier on the critters.

Bankruptcies up 51% in June

Canadian bankruptcies rose 51.6 per cent in June compared to a year earlier as more consumers were unable to pay debts, but business bankruptcies rose only modestly despite the recession, a government report showed.

The number of consumer bankruptcies in June rose 54.3 per cent to 10,823 from June 2008, while business bankruptcies rose 10.8 per cent to 515, the Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy Canada said in a report.

"The sharp jump in consumer bankruptcies is not too surprising given we're coming off a recession, and it's probably a lagged response to the massive job

CTV asks Ottawa to again regulate cable, satellite bills

BROADCASTING The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission ought to turn back the clock and once again regulate the billing practices of cable and satellite companies, says CTV.

The broadcaster, owned by CTVglobemedia Inc., vowed yesterday to raise its concerns about "anti-consumer billing practices by cable and satellite companies" with the federal broadcast regulator during public hearings this fall.

"At a time when cable and satellite companies are experiencing record revenues and profits, Canadians deserve better including open and transparent billing practices from TV service providers," stated CTV.

The CRTC began deregulating basic cable rates in 1997. It has never regulated consumer prices for upper-tier cable packages, which account for 95 per cent of cable subscribers.

Setbacks for Balsillie

COYOTES If the Phoenix Coyotes' bankruptcy case is analogous to a boxing match, then Jim Balsillie was staggered by a couple of solid body blows yesterday.

And the Canadian billionaire might hit the canvas even before the team goes up for auction on Sept. 10.

It was not a good day in court for Balsillie and his relentless pursuit of the Coyotes, the team he hopes to purchase and bring to Hamilton as Canada's seventh NHL franchise. Two developments were decidedly not in his favour.

Firstly, bankruptcy judge Redfield T. Baum, after ruling last week that the Sept. 10 auction was open to all bidders including Balsillie, has now set a hearing for Sept. 2 to determine whether the RIM co-CEO is a qualified bidder.

Secondly, the Coyotes' largest secured creditor has shifted its support from Balsillie's offer for the team to the $148 million bid from Chicago sports mogul Jerry Reinsdorf. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Looking to rebound

Healthy van Koeverden plans to go all out on Lake Banook

MATTHEW WUEST
matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

A free helicopter ride over the Grand Canyon might sound like the highlight of a memorable summer vacation.

But when it's the Arizona Department of Public Safety airlifting you out after you broke your ankle while whitewater rafting — and you're one of Canada's most recognizable Olympians — that free ride is a nightmare you'd rather forget.

"It probably wasn't the best way to get a Grand Canyon helicopter trip around the Hoover Dam," a sheepish Adam van Koeverden said yesterday while promoting this weekend's world sprint canoe-kayak championships on Lake Banook.

The injury did very little for his bid to rebound after a disappointing showing at last summer's Beijing Olympics, where he offered a dejected apology on national television for an eighth-place finish in the K-1 1,000 metres.

Although most assume lower-body injuries have little impact on kayakers, van Koeverden, 27, dispelled the myth.

"There's nobody with skinny chicken legs around here," he said. "We use our lower bodies ... and quite significantly."

Despite the setback, van

Koeverden has stated he will be "givin' it hell" on Lake Banook. The only evidence of the June 16 accident is a three-inch scar on his right ankle from surgery that drilled four half-inch screws into his fibula.

He addressed reporters yesterday with an optimistic outlook, calling his summer a "positive experience." It was the first time in his career he had cut back on his training.

"I got back on the water feeling better than I did when I left," he said. "The rest definitely did its job."

The Oakville, Ont., native — a resident of Murray Hill Drive in Dartmouth for two years of his early childhood — said he only took three days of training off. Against the advice of doctors, he got right back to the gym, using a paddling machine while soaking his broken ankle in a bucket of ice.

He was back in a kayak by late July and had "a solid seven weeks of preparation" for the world championships.

"It was a challenge," he said. "But every athlete likes a challenge."

Racing at home 'a huge thrill' for Dalton

matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

There were times this summer when it looked as though Richard Dalton wouldn't make it to the world sprint canoe-kayak championships.

The Halifax native didn't qualify for the spring World Cup tour and rattled off six consecutive second-place finishes at national team selection trials. It wasn't until the final set of trials last month in Montreal that Dalton finally earned his spot by winning the C-1 200 metres and the C-4 500.

Dalton knew coming in he was going to be in a dogfight for a spot, having fallen short of the Beijing Olympics last summer af-

Crashing, burning and getting paid

Backstage Pass

RAFAEL BRUSILOV
for Metro Canada

James (Bam-Bam) Bamford has been burned alive, bashed with furniture and thrown out of high places thousands of times.

The 42-year-old stuntman, stunt coordinator and president of Stunts Canada has performed and managed stunts for more than a hundred movies and TV shows like Get Carter, Blade Trinity, Battlestar Galactica and Stargate Atlantis. If you saw the trailer for the recent movie Watchmen, that was Bamford getting kneed in the chest by Night Owl in a prison fight scene.

Bamford was a juvenile corrections officer and taught martial arts before getting into his start in stunts about 17 years ago. A stunt coordinator called him looking for a stunt double who could do martial arts for the TV show Cobra and tall, trim Bamford fit the bill perfectly. The director nicknamed him Bam-Bam that first day on set and the name has stuck with Bamford since. Bamford doubled for David Duchovny for most of The X-Files' entire run and was primary stunt coordinator on the recently ended series Stargate Atlantis.

Throughout his stunt career Bamford has worked with dozens of action stars like Sylvester Stallone, Arnold Schwarzenegger and Vin Diesel. Gwyneth Paltrow smashed him over the head with a stool in the film Duets and he has been light on fire, thrown off cliffs and hurled through windows more times than he could ever count. While some people probably think that all sounds like a barrel of fun — and Bamford insists that it certainly is — doing stunts correctly and safely is much harder than it looks.

"People see the easy days and think, 'I could do that.' They don't see the days you break your arm," Bamford said.

"It takes an incredible amount of concentration and an incredible amount of athletic ability to perform a stunt correctly. Just to jump off a building you have to train your brain to allow you to do it. A stuntman is not a daredevil," he added.

While safety is paramount, no stunt is 100 per cent safe — that's why stunt people get hired in the first place.

"We're a calculated risk but there's always that risk.

You try to make a stunt as foolproof as possible but the more variables you add, the more risk there is.

An Eclipse to watch

Redesigned coupe shows its many colours

ROB BIENTEMA
for Metro Canada

Yellow sports cars. Always seemed like overkill to me. Gilding the lily. Clamouring for attention. Unnecessary. An extrovert's exercise in ego-boosting.

I mean, having a sports car should be statement enough. Do you really need it in "hey, look at me!" yellow just in case nobody notices?

So maybe I was a little dubious as I took my first walk around the car. Or maybe I'd just got out of bed on the wrong side that morning because, as I circled the car, I grudgingly came to admit that the 2009 Mitsubishi

Engine: GS 2.4-litre four-cylinder (162 hp, 162 lb/ft); GT-P 3.8-litre V6 (265 hp, 262 lb/ft)

Highlights

- New colour options
- Fun to drive
- Impressive redesign

Eclipse Coupe looked pretty damn fine after all. Even in yellow.

Solar yellow is one of three new colours for the Eclipse this year, along with Maizen Blue pearl and Quick Silver metallic.

Personally, I've always been partial to the burnt orange shade of Sunset Pearlescent, particularly handsome on this car. But almost any colour seems to compliment the play of light along the curvaceous lines and flanks of this fourth generation Eclipse.

For 2009, the front and rear bumper fascias have had a facelift. The aggressive front end adopts the gaping grille 'jet fighter intake' design cue from the popular Lancer Evolution, a look that is spreading across the Mitsubishi lineup.

There are two model choices within the Eclipse Coupe lineup — a four-banger base GS and an upscale V6-powered GT-P version. We'll leave the Eclipse Spyder convertibles for another story.

Under the hood, the base Eclipse GS starts things off with the standard 2.4-litre, 16-valve, SOHC four-cylinder engine equipped with Mitsubishi Innovative Valve timing and lift Electronic Control (MIVEC) technology, making 162 hp at 6000 rpm and 162 lb/ft of torque at 4000 rpm. This engine is unexciting but fairly frugal, rated at 10.5/7.3L/100km (city/hwy)(manual).

As tested here, the GT-P's six-cylinder engine, also enhanced by the MIVEC system, ups the power ante significantly, adding over a hundred more horses with a corresponding increase in torque. Officially, the 3.8-litre, 24 valve, SOHC V6 harnesses 265 hp at 5750 rpm and 262 lb/ft of torque at 4500 rpm. Fuel economy is rated at 13.1/8.0L/100km (city/hwy)(manual).

This was a fun engine to row through the gears, powerful and responsive. Inside, the Eclipse Coupe is comfortable for two.

The one-piece highback front buckets feature open headrests for a sporty look and enhanced rear visibility and were inspired by Mitsubishi rally cars.

Although officially rated as a four-seater, the rear seat in the Eclipse, as is the case in most 2+2s, is an afterthought, suitable only for occasional torture and more usually used as a receptacle for briefcases, purses and other odds and ends.

Kingsway Court Dental Centre: Grand Opening Celebration

More than 300 kids belong to the Sackville Boys and Girls Club, and most of those youth will benefit thanks to the newly re-opened Kingsway Court Dental Clinic at 601 Sackville Drive.

The newly re-opened clinic is holding a special charity fundraising event. For every $35 custom mouth guard purchased, $5 will go directly back into the local Sackville Boys and Girls Club.

On Aug. 15, from 11-2 p.m. the Sackville Boys and Girls Club will host a special barbecue and family event at the new clinic to help raise awareness of this promotion.

Families will have a chance to enjoy hot-dogs, games and book their appointment for the custom sport mouth guard at the clinic.

“This is a win win,” says Trevor Brown, Executive Director of the Sackville Boys and Girls Club. “As a Not for Profit organization, we know how to make every penny worth a quarter. For example for the 25 youth leadership group members who arrange the event, half the money will help with their end of summer camping trip.

The Custom Sport Mouth Guard Clinic begins in August will continue for months to come, giving kids the opportunity in the foreseeable future to have a custom sport mouth guard that will also benefit this local charity.

For Dr. Ursula Lozowski, owner of Kingsway Court Dental Clinic, this was the perfect introduction back into the community. Not only is she able to help reintroduce the clinic to the community, help local youth, but she also gets to raise awareness about the importance of custom sport mouth guards.

Kingsway Court Dental Clinic has a long history in the community of Sackville. There have been a few other dentists who have already called this location home, but it has been closed for a few months. Lozowski says she felt the location was ideal.

“It’s a wonderful spot,” says Lozowski. “We felt it was important to reopen it and make sure we welcome new families in the heart of this growing community. That is why we’re also proud to support the Sackville Boys and Girls Club.”

Brown says he was thrilled to hear about the re-opening. “For us, it’s great that the kids get to help to fund raise, raise awareness in the community about a good cause and help others. The best part is

Mouth guards for athletes heading back to school

As parents prepare their kids for back to school, many aren't even aware of an important piece of equipment that children involved in sports should have—a custom sport mouth guard.

It takes a 15 to 20 minute appointment with a dentist or dental assistant and quick follow up appointment to fit a custom mouth guard, a small piece of dental gear that could help protect a child from tooth damage, or painful cuts to the lips and mouth sustained while playing their favourite sport.

Unlike guards found at sporting stores, a custom sport mouth guard will stay in the mouth better and protect the teeth and jaw by absorbing the impact that may result in a damaged jaw and concussion. Anyone who plays a sport where there is a risk of injury to their teeth should consider wearing a mouth guard.

To make it even more inviting, the custom guards are coloured – maybe to match a team's uniform. The guard is made of a heavy duty, flexible, hard-wearing Proform laminate which also ensures the owner can breathe easily. The mouth guards will help build confidence and give parents piece of mind.

Mouth guards protect your children when playing sports.

5 pint-sized pod hotels

Smaller is better at this new breed of accommodation

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
Metro World News

These days, you can get miniature versions of just about everything: Magazines, toothpaste, mascara brushes ... the list is endless. But now travellers are searching out mini-sized hotel rooms that can serve as a sort of glorified locker while one heads off to explore a destination.

The concept of the pod or capsule hotel stems from Japan, where they were designed to give people with busy working lives — not to mention those who had a few too many shots of sake at a client dinner and missed the last bullet train home — a place to crash in for a few hours sleep.

The focus here is on cheap, comfortable and compact but stylish rooms that still manage to cram the latest technologies, from iPod docks to flatscreen TVs. Choose from these capsule hotels from New York to Tokyo:

Two examples of the pod hotel concept in New York include, left, The Jane, which features cabin-style rooms, and right, The Pod Hotel.

The Pod Hotel, New York: Pod and blog

The concept: Although there is no denying the simple, stylish and high-tech pods are great value for money, this is of secondary importance at The Pod, where the focus is on saving energy (and cash) for socializing, interacting and discovering New York City. Stop at the Pod Café, a rooftop bar serving home-style organic food for a chat with your pod pals, or find out about their experiences on the Pod Community Blog, where guests can post comments about their stay, making it a sort of online concierge service.

Expect flash updates on what's cool in town, including music, free events and activities.

Price per pod: From about $112 per night.

The site: thepodhotel.com

The Jane, Manhattan: Survivors, sailors and holiday makers

The concept: This landmark hotel in New York's West Village was built as a hotel for sailors and restored for its centenary in 2008. The building's cabin-style rooms sheltered the stranded survivors of the Titanic in 1912, but you're now more likely to come across hip but cash-strapped travellers than seafarers these days. The pod-sized rooms have the look and feel of a luxury ship's cabin — mixing iPod docking points and free Wi-Fi with antique fans. If you get a bit of cabin fever, the rest of the hotel is fortunately not based on the compact cruise ship concept — the grandiose ballroom lounge is always buzzing with guests also in search of open space.

Price per pod: From about $112 per night.

The site: thejanenyc.com

Yotel, Heathrow Terminal 4, Gatwick South Terminal and Schiphol: Capsule cabin

The concept: Missed your flight? No need to strain your neck sleeping on a row of seats in the departures lounge when you can snooze for a couple of hours in a capsule-sized cabin with 24-hour room-service, monsoon showers and a jukebox to sing along to.

The pods are modelled after the interior of a plane — you are after all, in an airport — with rooms designed for travellers with overbooked schedules and a thirst for technology and comfort.

If you have time to kill before check-in, opt for a premium cabin featuring a techno wall with flatscreen TV, surround-sound and iPod docks. But don't get too comfortable, or you may miss your flight.

Price per pod: From about $53 for four hours or $114 per night.

Two views of the rooms at Qbic, a pod hotel where guests can change the colour of lighting in their tiny living quarters.

Qbic, Amsterdam: Cubed and Toned

The concept: A four-poster bed, a shower and chair packed into just seven square metres — this is no dollhouse, but an average room at the Qbic, where interior designer Philippe Starck created the decor.

Everything here functions on self-service, from check-in to the Grab & Go vending machine that dispenses everything from snacks to toothpaste and neckties. The high point of your short stay? In your quirky Cubi living space you'll be able to adapt the lighting — mellow yellow, red romance, deep purple love — to suit your mood. Price per pod: From about $125 per night. The site: qbichotels.com

Capsule Inn Akihabara, Tokyo: Inn Tokyo

The concept: You can sleep in a capsule that's the exact replica of a jet airplane cockpit in Tokyo's original pod hotel.

Like other pod hotels, Capsule Inn has separate floors for men and women, although sharing would be physically impossible as these functional pods are about the size of the average tanning booth rather than a hotel room. They are definitely not for the claustrophobic. There's also a main lounge area for those waiting for their next shuttle train home, or to the office.

Once nestled in your capsule bed, you'll be pleasantly surprised to find that there's still the space for a TV, radio, adjustable lighting and of course, an alarm clock — to make sure you actually make it back to work in time.

Toothbrushes, robes (Yukatas) and razors (to get rid of morning stubble) are supplied free of charge and although the inn has no eating facilities, there is a world of options waiting outside. If you need to check your email or join a conference call, the ground floor lounge has free Internet.

Price per pod: From about $55 per night. The site: capsuleinn.com

Men on a mission

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Quentin Tarantino's latest pop art extravaganza, Inglourious Basterds, once again resurrects a formerly popular genre.

Having previously dabbled in the heist film, blackploitation cinema, the chopsoy epic, and grindhouse horror, Tarantino has now turned his attention to a specific subset of war movies: The men-on-a-mission tale.

These films typically involve following a group of walking piles of testosterone on a seemingly impossible mission. Tarantino has assembled a colorful cast of characters, lead by Brad Pitt, who make it their goal to inflict as much pain on Adolph Hitler's Nazis as possible during the Second World War.

As always, his film is steeped in movies of the past. Here are a few examples of the best men-on-a-mission movies that preceded Inglourious Basterds.

The Dirty Dozen: The granddaddy of all men-on-a-mission tales refines the genre to its most basic components. We see a group of badass actors assembled for a special mission, watch them train, fight, and bond with each other, and then see the gang head into the big game for a massive and gloriously violent climax.

The cast is stocked exclusively with guys' guys like Lee Marvin, Charles Bronson, John Cassavetes, and football great Jim Brown.

Even at an epic 150 minutes, this is a streamlined action feast made to appeal to the audience's base macho instincts. The movie has become a cable classic for a reason: It elicits the same hoot-and-holler response from the target audience as a football game.

The Big Red One: Writer/director Sam Fuller made a career out of aggression and sensationalism, but didn't create the most personal and arguably best film of his career until his '70s. The Big Red One once again puts Lee Marvin in command of a group of soldiers during the Second World War, but this time Fuller mixes depressing wartime realism with the over-the-top theatrics (including the finest cinematic depiction of D-day until Spielberg went to Normandy).

Available in a sadly truncated theatrical cut and an overlong, but more satisfying director's cut, this is one of the most unsentimental war movies out there.

The Inglourious Basterds: Tarantino stole the title and atmosphere from this ridiculous Italian exploitation flick from the '70s, but little else. The movie is about a group of American soldiers being sent home for various crimes (including murder), whose transport gets attacked by Nazis, forcing them to fight their way through Germany to make it to Switzerland and freedom.

It's absurdly violent and

PEOPLE.COM

Inglourious Basterds stars Brad Pitt.

Inglourious Basterds hits theatres next week over-the-top, but that's just part of the fun. Starring '70s exploitation icon Fred Williamson, this is a lost trash classic.

Saving Private Ryan: Though Steven Spielberg's trademark sentimentalism and humanism might keep most audiences from recognizing it as being part of the genre, this is a men-on-a-mission film through and through. The movie has all the action and macho one-upmanship that defines the genre, it's just presented in a more realistic and Oscar friendly package.

Take off the unnecessary wrap around plot at a military graveyard and this is one of the purest and most entertaining men-on-a-mission movies ever made.

Hot Rod
If the phrase "love child of Evel Knievel and Napoleon Dynamite" makes you wince rather than giggle, give this uber-silly 2007 comedy a pass. Rod (Andy Samberg) is a geeky wannabe daredevil who rides a moped, wears a Burt Reynolds mustache, and idolizes Knievel and his own late daredevil dad. When his obnoxious stepfather (Ian McShane) needs an operation, Rod plans to raise the money by setting a new record for jumping over buses. Perhaps the best stunt in this movie was pulled off by the casting director, who got Oscar winner Sissy Spacek to play Rod's mom. 8:25 PM on M1

The New Adventures of Old Christine
Christine (Julia Louis-Dreyfus) is getting married! Who's the lucky guy? Um, actually it's Barb (Wanda Sykes). She's in danger of being deported to the Bahamas, so Christine, like a good friend, offers to marry her so she can stay. She's not the only one hearing wedding bells, though; Richard (Clark Gregg) has decided to pop the question to New Christine (Emily Rutherford) in "A Decent Proposal." 9 PM on ASN

Nicole's pregnancy fix: In-N-Out

MUST-HAVE With Nicole Richie due to have their second child in weeks, papa Joel Madden dishes on Richie's pregnancy cravings, people.com reports.

In lieu of the pickles and ice-cream combos demanded by some women, Madden tells People that the expectant mama wants only burgers.

Unfortunately, while Richie's cravings may be limited to hamburgers from California's In-N-Out chain, the hunger pangs can occur any time — day or night.

"It's usually about two or three in the morning," Madden said. "I'm the one that has to run out — either go make her a sandwich or go to In-N-Out or whatever she wants at any given time."

MJ's autopsy results kept hush-hush

UNDER WRAPS Michael Jackson's final autopsy report is for detectives' eyes only, people.com reports.

The Los Angeles coroner has completed its investigation into the death of Jackson, but the LAPD has asked for a security hold on the results as it continues its investigation.

Los Angeles police and federal drug investigators have launched a manslaughter probe apparently focusing on Jackson's personal physician, Dr. Conrad Murray, but also including other doctors, whose records have been seized.

The investigation has looked into the role the powerful anesthesia Propofol may have played.

Murray was treating Jackson when the entertainer was stricken at home.

"The extension of security measures will help maintain the integrity of the investigation and allow investigators from

LAPD's Robbery Homicide Division, as well as our partner law enforcement agencies to continue their investigation ... conducted by the LAPD has included dozens of individual interviews and the service of search warrants locally and out-of-state."

Miranda Sevcik, a spokeswoman for Murray's attorney Ed Chernoff, told People: "All we can say ... is that we look forward to reading the report when it comes out."

Here is this week's top diarrhea disaster:

"I was on an elevator on my way to a meeting (had to go 18 floors) when all of the sudden I had a terrible cramp in my stomach that nearly doubled me over. I had terrible pressure and felt that I needed to pass gas. I was the only one on the elevator so I thought what could be the harm...it was not gas...it was unexpected diarrhea! I had to get off the elevator early and find the nearest bathroom. I was shocked beyond belief and had to wash my underwear in the bathroom sink and pray to god it was a one-time occurrence. I had to go commando that day. I guess it could have been a lot worse. I look back on it now and laugh!" - S. Mitchell

HOW TO PLAY: Digits 1 through 9 will appear once in each zone — one zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine zones in the puzzle. Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same zone, row across or column down the entire puzzle.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Roasted Salmon with Sautéed Greens

INGREDIENTS:

1/4 cup (50 ml) balsamic vinegar
2 tbsp (25 ml) brown sugar
1 tsp (5 ml) mustard powder
1/2 tsp (2 ml) salt
1 1/4 lbs (625 g) salmon, cut into 4 pieces
1 tbsp (15 ml) olive oil
1 large red onion, cut into thin strips
8 oz (250 g) baby spinach

METHOD:

1. Preheat broiler. In small bowl, combine vinegar, brown sugar, mustard and salt. Brush 1/2 of mixture over salmon. Broil until opaque, 4 to 5 minutes, brushing with vinegar mixture after 2 minutes.
2. Meanwhile, heat oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add onion and cook until lightly browned, 2 minutes. Cover and cook until tender, 2 minutes. Add spinach and cook, stirring, until almost wilted, 1 minute. Add remaining vinegar mixture and cook, stirring, until spinach is wilted and sauce thickens slightly, 1 minute.

3. Divide spinach mixture equally among 4 dinner plates. Top each serving with piece of salmon.
